COURSE OUTLINE

“Mā te huruhuru ka rewa ki runga”

With feathers, one can fly

This whakatauki is an analogy for te reo Māori and the power in which it provides youth to succeed.

Tikanga Māori is the founding platform at NCEA Level 3. At the end of Taumata 3 students can take part in conversation with speakers of te reo Māori, understand most of what is said, and contribute relevant comments. They can explain and discuss many of their own ideas and opinions and may use te reo Māori creatively. They can read a variety of authentic te reo Māori materials and write expressively for a range of purposes. Students use a range of strategies to help them learn te reo Māori effectively, and they demonstrate a high level of fluency for a learner of te reo Māori as a second language. The NCEA Level 2 course is the building block with an immersion interview with Whaea Roimata for acceptance into the course.

The NCEA Level 3 course develops student skills in six different language modes—Whakarono (Listening), Pānui (Reading), Mātīrotiro (Viewing), Kōrero (Speaking), Tuhi (Writing) and Whakapuaki (Presenting). In each of these modes students should be able to meet the following achievement objectives: communicate about certainty and uncertainty, possibility and probability; develop an argument or point of view with reasons; recount a series of events to inform, persuade or entertain; communicate the same information in different ways for different audiences; respond to selected texts in te reo Māori that are about te reo and tikanga Māori.

COURSE OUTLINE

This course aims to develop students understanding of the ancient world by focussing on two highly influential figures from Greece: Aristophanes and Alexander the Great. Students will continue to build on their skills from last year and add in more analytical skills by assessing modern perspectives as well as ancient evidence. Level 3 classics has students doing a deep dive allowing for more nuance and analysis rather than a broad understanding that level 2 developed.

The course begins with an introduction to the ancient world to help new students and refresh other students. Students then get to experience old Attic comedy from the master Aristophanes and his plays Wasps and Frogs. Students will learn to understand the values of Athenian society by utilising these comedic texts. After that students get to meet one of the most famous men in history, Alexander the Great. Students will follow his rise to power, destruction of the Persian empire and then conquest to the edge of the world. Students will engage with a variety of primary sources as well as secondary sources to develop a complete understanding of Alexander the Great.

COURSE OUTLINE

Geography is the study of our environment, the way people have changed it to meet their needs — and our place in it. Geographers try to understand what makes up the natural and cultural environment and how these elements interact. As geographers, students are encouraged to develop their ability to think about and synthesise material from a range of sources, (including statistics, photographs and aerial imagery, spatial technologies, reports, interviews), then use this material to write their own reports. The transferable skills developed in the study of Geography will be of significant benefit to students intending to study at university.

The course will look at the natural processes that shape the Auckland coastal environment, contemporary issues and cultural processes operating at a global and national scale. Students will carry out research within the local community which will enable them to develop and apply a range of practical skills.

For some standards, students will have a choice about the topics that they work on. At this level, students are able to choose topics and direct their own learning to a greater extent than in Levels 1 and 2 Geography. This enables students to delve into aspects of geography that interest them.

Level 3 History is the culmination of the course providing a transition to tertiary studies. It demands a higher level of thinking. Through this study, students will develop skills in research interpretation, evaluation, historical empathy and analysis. At this level students explore issues at greater depth and with more historical insight than during the previous year. The topics studied help students to understand current issues, such as the protest movements around the globe and the experiences of living through a pandemic. There is a shift in emphasis towards a consideration of historical method, and historiography – what is involved in the craft of the historian. Students are expected to argue a convincing case in answer to searching historical questions. By the end of the course students will have studied in depth some key historical developments of yesterday's world which will contribute to understanding their society. At Level 3 the themes will likely be a mixture of the following that illustrate Global History: Aspects of Nineteenth Century New Zealand; The Enlightenment, the Salem Witch Trials, The Historian's Craft. COURSE OUTLINE

The idea of 'Modernism' as a turning away from tradition towards change and innovation took hold in the middle of the 19th Century. The years between 1900 and 1940 were years of accelerated change - social, technological, political, scientific, and philosophical. Art reflected these changes. Art History is an academic course, which focuses on written responses to art works and their historical contexts. Students research, analyse and respond to Early Modernist Western art forms from 20th Century Europe. Students learn terminology and language specific to the visual arts. This course prepares students for tertiary study in the arts and complements the Level 3 practical art courses and Classics.

COURSE OUTLINE

This course is a progression from Level 2 Drama. The Level 3 course is an exciting and challenging course which will assist you in further developing your skills of collaboration, creativity, innovation and interpretation.

You will rehearse and perform works in a range of dramatic forms, as well as respond to the work of others. Class work is a mixture of group and individual tasks, and it is important for you to work co-operatively in a group, as well as independently. Leadership and collaboration opportunities increase as you are able to mentor younger students, particularly in co-curricular activities. Skills acquired in the course translate well to a number of fields and prepare students to confidently present themselves as creative and innovative thinkers and learners.
